

QUEENSLAND homes

& Art
About

Natalie Bannister

White washed with Signarture

Signarture are launching their white series: innovative, contemporary perspex artworks destined to provide fresh inspiration for interior designers, and decorating ideas for design savvy homemakers.

Traditionally, most art prints have been produced on white media, whether art papers or canvases. White inks have not been required or available.

Signarture have been twice nominated for designEX awards for product innovation, and now bring the latest white inks to life through their perspex art medium, creating stunning, unique artworks for modern interiors. There are so many ways to use perspex wall art to superb effect - positioned on an on-trend black wall, perspex art created using white inks delivers a modern, monochromatic statement, or use it over timber panelling to highlight the white inks for a clean, organic statement. A selection of Signarture designs have been reworked in this stunning, ultra-modern combination of white ink on clear perspex, and are available to view and purchase online through the signarture gallery. www.signarture.com.au